THE CORNER STONE LAID!

For the Marion Petrikin Memorial Hall.

BEAUTIFUL AND IMPOSING SERVICE

Rev. George Israel Brown Laid the Stone—Eloquent Addresses by Dr. Shriner and Dr. Holloway.

A LARGE AUDIENCE PRESENT

Fair weather and intense interest in the event served to draw a large concourse of people Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock to witness the laying of the corner-stone of the new Petrikin Memorial Hall, now in process of erection to the memory of the late Miss Marion Petrikin, by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Bellefonte.

Beautiful and impressive indeed were the exercises which marked the occasion. The members of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union gathered in their rooms in the Allison block and as the hour for the corner-stone laying drew near they marched in a body to the building site headed by the president, Mrs. John P. Harris, Sr., and the secretary and treasurer, Mrs. James Harris.

A large choir, composed of about fifty voices, rendered the hyms selected in an inspiring manner. The opening hymns were "Holy, Holy, Holy is the Lord," "We Praise Thee, We Bless Thee," and "Stand Up for Jesus." This was followed by the reading of the Scripture lesson by Rev. W. H. Brown, of the Evangelical church.

Rev. William Laurie, D. D., LL. D., then offered an earnest prayer in which he invoked the divine blessing on the exercises of the day and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and asked God to make the work to be accomplished by the erection of this building one of great good to the community.

"Conquering Now and Still to Conquer" was then sung by the choir, after which Dr. Wilford P. Shriner, of the Methodist church, made a short address. Dr. Shriner paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of that good, Christian woman whose generosity was the starting point for the erection of this building, Marion Wallace Petrikin. He also complimented the noble work undertaken by the ladies of Bellefonte composing the W. C. T. U., and gave a brief history of that organization in the United States and the great and good work it has accomplished and will continue to accomplish in the future. Dr. Shriner's address was an earnest and eloquent effort and was closely listened to by all present.

After singing the hymn "Faith is the Victory," Dr. H. C. Holloway, of the Lutheran church, was introduced and delivered an eloquent address, which was as follows :

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF THE CORNER-STONE.

Ladies and Gentlemen :—

We raise armies and build navies and thereby show to the world the martial strength of the nation. We build churches, gather congregations and thereby perpetuate the gospel of the Son of God, and attest our faith in the christian religion. Indeed, almost every distinct organization declares itself by erecting buildings and setting apart places for meeting and the perpetuation of its faith and principles. It is meet, therefore, and eminently proper, that the W. C. T. U. "The Woman's Christian Temperance Union" of Bellefonte, should today here lay the corner stone, upon which shall be erected a building that will stand for a distinct and splendid purpose; the cause of Christian temperance, truth and righteousness. There is a significance in this that all our good people should warmly welcome and greet with joy and prayerful heart.

We congratulate the good and zealous women who have given so many years of toil and prayers to this noble work. And, with profound reverence and love we speak the name of Miss Marion Petrikin, through whose noble generosity this occasion and this building, has been made possible. "The memory of the just is blessed." "The righteous shall be held in everlasting rememberance."

In one of the sublimest passages of the sublime Book of Job, the earth is represented under the figure of a building. Out of the whirlwind Job is awed into silence by the questions of Jehovah. "Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened, or who laid the corner stone thereof; when the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy."

The laying of the corner stone, then, of an important building, is an occasion of more than ordinary significance. It marks the completion of the foundation and indicates that everything is now ready for the superstructure. The stone itself is significant. It binds together the walls and gives them strength and firmness; it supports more of the building than an ordinary stone, and is, therefore, more important; its place in the building is a very conspicuous one, and it is carefully selected, cut and shaped, so as to make it symmetrical and beautiful, and worthy of prominence. It is therefore, becoming that this occasion should be marked with special services and solemn ceremonies.

But while this is the outer and visible significance, there is a deeper truth contained in what we do here today; its the cause, the great and momentous cause, which, the building erected on this stone, is to promote, perpetuate, and ultimately make gloriously triumphant, the cause of temperance.

It is well that the foundation stone for a building, representing such a cause, be laid deep and welleven on Christ, who is the chief corner-stone of all good, and that the best and most formidable structure, expressive of our faith in the cause which it represents, be erected thereon.

And surely there is ne d for this. There is no room for frost bitten and timid expression, or broken apology when we speak on the evils of intemperance. The rum traffic is an unadulterated, unmixed curse, a parent scourge. It is the embodiment of all that is crushing in poverty, bitter in woe, or black in crime. That canvas, as it moves before us with its fearful scenery of poverty, vice and crime, sketched from life in its deep coloring of tears and blood, has not one bright spot which the wearied eye can rest; not a single gleam of sun-shine lights upon it. Rum has been a malign star to man! From the cradle to the grave, its false light has lured him to ruin and death. The pestilence stalks forth and feasts upon its rotting tribute, but passes away. War lifts its beacon, crimson in the red glare of its conflagration, and strides over the torn field until its garments drip and smoke with blood; but war ceases, and the harvests of peace lift their golden waves where hostile squadrons met in deadly conflict.

Famine, gaunt and spectral, stalks on around the firesides of men, and the famished skeletons lie down and die, and, without shrouds or graves, bleach at the threshold; but the earth teems again with promise and plenty, and the judgment is stayed. But how different with rum! It never slumbers. Its work of destruction never ceases for a moment. O! the evil it has entailed. While wept over by humanity and denounced by God, strong behind the infamous legislation of ages, it has moved on and on, a withering, wide sweeping curse; a seething and desolating tide, black with the wrecks of hopes, happiness and life, and in every land and clime filling homes with poverty and want, hearts with woe, the alms houses with paupers, the prisons with felons and murderers, the earth with graves, and eternity with myriads of lost souls.

Oh then, let us today and here rejoice together that the cause of temperance has so much advanced, and that in our midst we have an abiding testimony of our faith in the cause for which this building shall stand.

Let us consecrate ourselves anew to the cause of temperance, and rejoice together that we are having this signal and abiding protest against this monster evil, in this beautiful building, whose cornerstone we have here laid in the name of Christ and his cause.—

It now came time for Mrs. J. P. Harris, as president of the W. C. T. U., to place the box containing the archives, etc., in the corner-stone. Mrs. Harris read a list of the contents of the box and in a graceful manner performed her part of the ceremony. The box contained the following: Sketch of Miss Petrikin; photograph of the house she occupied so many years; list of scholars who attended Miss Petrikin's school, collected by Mrs. H. C. Valentine; a list of contributors thus far toward the erection of the building; a letter from Neal Dow, father of Prohibition in Maine; a list of members of Temperance Light Bearers, Miss Annie V. Lyon, leader; a letter from Frances E. Williard, the inspiration and leader of women; resolutions of Bellefonte Temperance Union, organized by Col. Woodford, on the death of their youngest and most interested member, Harold Richardson Harris; souvenirs of the Centre County Centennial; a copy of each weekly paper of the town, also of the DAILY NEWS.

The beautiful ceremony of the laying of the corner-stone was then performed by Rev. George Israel Brown, of St. John's Episcopal church, in an impressive and interesting manner. The choir then sang "Praise Him, Praise Him," after which Rev. T. W. Perks, of the United Brethren church, offered an earnest prayer. The highly interesting exercises of the day were then brought to a successful close by the pronouncing of the benediction by Dr. Laurie.

RACE RIOT IN THE SOUTH

Three White Men and Eleven Negroes Have Been Slain.

NEGRO POPULATION UP IN ARMS

They Were Threatening to Exterminate the Whites—Five Hundred Men Under Arms in Washington Parish, La.

THE SEQUEL TO A NEGRO'S BURNING

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 29.—A "Picayune" special says :

Three white men and eleven negroes killed was the startling and terrible news from Washington Parish last night. Your correspondent has just conversed with a man from Franklinton and he confirms the above information but he knew nothing of what has happened since Sunday evening.

The first news of the race riot was brought here by Cornelius Mixon, who left from near Franklinton yesterday morning. He stated that white men rode into Franklinton at 2 o'clock yesterday morning, asking for help, saying that negroes were up in arms, threatening to exterminate the whites. The scene of the trouble is near Bailtown, where a negro was burned last week for criminally assaulting a white woman, This was not the cause, however, of the fatal riot.

P. B. Carter arrived from Franklinton last night and said that the situation was terrible and that more trouble is feared. He said two white men and eleven negroes were dead, according to his information.

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning a posse left Franklinton for the scene in charge of Sheriff Simmons and from all over the country armed men were hurried there. Mr. Carter said that 500 men, probably, were under arms today in Washington Parish. The trouble occurred at a negro campmeeting and the origin, as near as can be ascertained, was as follows :

Creer Lott, a negro, was running a refreshment stand and a constable, a white man, name not given, went to him and asked for his license. He had none and became impudent, cursed the constable and defied him. The constable withdrew but returned with several white men, when the negro Lott rushed out and fired, killing Joe Seals and Charles Elliott. The whites returned the fire and killed Lott. Then a negro preacher named Connelly rushed out of a house with gun in hand, attempting to shoot, when he was killed. His daughter was also killed, it is said accidentally. In the shooting which followed another white man was killed and seven or eight negroes killed.

The shooting had no direct connection with the burning of the negro Morris, in that section, last, week, but it is undoubtedly a sequel to that tragic event.

Victim of an Unusual Accident.

SHENANDOAH, October 26.—About 12 o'clock Thursday James O'Connor, aged 19, of this place, was the victim of a very unusual accident. He was engaged as fireman on a locomotive, which is used to haul dirt from the St. Nicholas breaker to the end of the culm bank. Without any warning an abandoned working caved in and engulfed the huge bank directly in front of the locomotive. The engineer saw the yawning chasm open in front of him just in time to leap from the engine, but the less fortunate fireman went down to destruction with the engine and cars. His body has not yet been recovered. The rescuing party is compelled to work cautiously, as the earth is still settling in the vicinity of the breach.

Rewarded for Finding a Body.

Michael Steidel and Edward N. Saxton, the Williamsport young men who found the body of Dr. Charles F. Dietz near Cogan station, have received the $50 reward that was offered shortly after the young man disappeared. The money was paid to the young hunters on Saturday at Williamsport in the presence of Coroner Goebrig.

Found a Flood Relic.

While Aaron Bittner, of Sugar Run, was floating down the river in a row boat he discovered at the bottom of the stream a large circular saw. Mr. Bittner's efforts to raise the saw to the top of the water were fruitless as the shaft and mandril were attached. The big saw no doubt has been lying where it was found ever since the flood of '89.

Anti—Mormon Mass Meeting.

HARRISBURG Oct. 28.—An anti-Mormon mass meeting was held here to-day in Grace Methodist church, at which Rev. Wesley Hill, chaplain of the senate, in behalf of the Woman's Interdenominational alliance, formally opened the campaign for an amendment to the national constitution for the prohibition of polygamy in all the states and territories.

The congregation joined in a petition to the next congress to submit the proposed amendment to the legislatures of the several states, defining legal marriages to be monogamic and making polygamy a crime against the United States and punishable with the severest penalty. Dr. Hill also addressed the Harrisburg Ministerial association on the question of "Co-operation of Members."

Dead With a Fortune in His Clothes.

Thomas Shannahan, an employe for the railroad company at Osceola, died at that place on Tuesday evening. He was supposed to be very poor, but after his death money to the amount of $5,500 was found on his person, sewed up in the lining of his clothes.

Shannahan has been employed for years as a track hand at $1 per day, and some of the bills dated back to 1850 on banks long since out of existence, shows that he has been hoarding and carrying the money in that manner for many years. The money had to be fumigated before it was placed in circulation again. Three sisters, one of whom lives in Osceola, are the only known heirs.

An Afflicted Family.

The family of Jonathan Walker, in Clearfield county, is a sorely afflicted family. On the 27th of May last his oldest son was suddenly killed while at work in West Virginia. Recently typhoid fever broke out in his home and all of his children were stricken with the disease. On Wednesday of last week Merrill, aged 16, died and his remains were conveyed to the cemetery Thursday afternoon for [illegible] friends to the home they were shocked to learn that Linn, aged 14 years, had died during the funeral of his brother. His remains were laid to rest on Saturday afternoon.

Wedding at Loganton.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Loganton Monday morning at 8 o'clock. The contracting parties were Harry Kolb, of Williamsport, and Miss Stella Huber, Loganton. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few relatives at the bride's home. A wedding breakfast was served after congratulations were tendered. The newly married couple left later in the day for Williamsport their future home.

Fire at Madera.

The large and elegant home of Thomas Blythe, at Madera, was destroyed by fire Sunday evening. There is nothing but the bare brick walls left, of what was one of the handsomest residences in Clearfield county. Some of the contents were saved, but most of the furniture, bedding, etc., were badly damaged. We have not been able to learn how the fire originated. It is a big loss to Mr. Blythe who is one of Clearfield county's best citizens. We learn there was some insurance on the house.

Altoona Iron Mills Closed.

The Altoona Iron company, the largest industry outside of the Pennsylvania railroad shops in Altoona, employing several hundred men, has closed down indefinitely because it is impossible to secure coal. This is due to the car famine existing on the Pennsylvania lines occasioned by the enormous freight traffic. The Altoona car shops are working double time to supply the demand.

Wanted to Wreck a Train.

James Clohessy, aged 16, of Keating Summit, has been taken to jail at Austin, Potter county, Clohessy pleaded guilty to the charge of attempting to wreck a train on the Pennsylvanic railroad. The Buffalo flyer was the next train and made a narrow escape. The boy was angry at an engineer, who put him off the engine of a freight train, and in a spirit of revenge he attempted the train wrecking business.

Burn the Leaves.

The boro authorities have decided not to enforce the recent ordinance passed by council prohibiting the burning of leaves on the streets. It seems to be the only convenient way of getting rid of the leaves, which if allowed to accumulate, soon become a great nuisance.

—Forty acres of land have been appropriated for a new public park in Chicago. It will be known as McKinley Park.

Assassin Czolgosz Dies in the Electric Chair.

HE DIED IN THREE MINUTES

Said he Was not Sorry for the Awful Crime He Had Committed—Would Have Liked to be Able to see His Father.

BODY BURIED IN UNMARKED GRAVE

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Leon F. Czolgosz, the murderer of President William McKinley, perished in the death chair at Auburn prison yesterday morning. There were three contacts, one lasting thirty seconds and the other two of shorter duration.

Electrician E. F. Davis, who has officiated at every electrocution since the electrocution of Kemmler, Aug. 6, 1900, was waiting for his fifty-eighth victim. Near him stood ex-Warden Thayer, of Clinton prison, who officiated as assistant electrician, Warden Thayer himself having given the signal which has sent nine murderers into eternity.

Warden Mead and Superintendent Collins quickly took up their positions. Mead standing a few feet from the chair, and in a position where he could signal Electrician Davis when the moment arrived. When the witnesses had seated themselves the electrician proceeded to test the apparatus to see that everything was in working order.

When all was ready Warden Mead and four guards went after the assassin. Keeper Tucker shot back the bolt of the door leading to the condemned men's row with a clang. The witnesses seated [illegible] corridor caught a momentary glimpse of the cell, less than forty feet from the chair. It was quickly reached by the guards. The door was unlocked and swung wide open. Czolgosz was ready. He was hustled out of the cell, and with a brawny guard on either side was marched to the chair. As he entered the death chamber he looked about him. He saw the cold, stony, unsympathetic gaze of the witnesses upon him. His eyes stared and he was apparently nerving himself for his final words.

The guards on either side of Czolgosz had hold of his arms as if either to support him or keep him from making a demonstration. As he stepped over the threshold he stumbled, but they held him up, and as they urged him forward toward the chair he stumbled again on the little rubber covered platform upon which the chair rests. His head was erect, and with his gray flannel shirt turned back at the neck he looked quite boyish. He was inteneely pale, and as he tried to throw his head back and carry himself erect his chin quivered perceptibly.

As he was being seated he looked about at the assembled witnesses with quite a steady stare and said :

"I killed the president because he was an enemy of the good people—of the working people."

His voice trembled slightly at first, but gained strength with each word, and he spoke perfect English.

"I am not sorry for my crime," he said loudly just as the guard pushed his head back on the rubber rest and drew the strap across his forehead and chin. As the pressure on the straps tightened and bound the jaw slightly, he mumbled :

"I'm awfully sorry I could not see my father."

It was just exactly 7:11 o'clock when he crossed the threshold; but a minute had elapsed and he had just finished the last statement, when the strapping was completed and the guards stepped back. Warden Mead raised his hand, and at 7.12 Electrician Davis turned the switch and threw 1,700 volts of electricity into the living body.

The rush of the current threw the body so hard against the straps that they creaked perceptibly. The hands clinched suddenly and the whole attitude was one of extreme tenseness. For forty-five seconds the full current was kept on and then slowly the electrician threw the switch back, reducing the current volt by volt until it was cut off entirely. Then just as it had reached that point he threw the lever back again for two or three seconds.

The body, which had collapsed as the current was reduced, stiffened up again against the straps. When it was turned off again, Dr. McDonald stepped to the chair and put his hand over the heart. He said he felt no pulsation, but suggested that the current be turned on for a few seconds again. Once more the body became rigid. At 7.15 the current was turned off for good.

From the time Czolgosz had left his cell until the full penalty was paid, less than four minutes had elapsed. The physicians present used the stethoscope and other tests to determine if any life remained, and at 7.17 the warden, raising his hand, announced, "Gentlemen, the prisoner is dead."

The witnesses filed from the chamber, and the body was taken from the chair and laid on the operating table,

Naturally almost the entire attention of the physicians assigned to hold the autopsy was directed toward discovering if possible whether the assassin was in any way mentally irresponsible. The autopsy was conducted by Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald, E. A. Spitzka and Prison Physician Gerin. The top of the head was sawed off through the thickest part of the skull, which was found to be of normal thickness, and it was the unanimous agreement of the microscopical examination that the brain was normal or slightly abnormal. This demonstrated to the satisfaction of the physicians that in no way was Czolgosz's mental condition, except as it might have been perverted, responsible for the crime.

The body was placed in a black stained pine coffin, every portion of the anatomy being replaced under the supervision of Dr. Gerin and Warden Mead. Shortly afterward it was taken to the prison cemetery, and an extraordinary precaution taken to completely destroy it.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., October 28.—Mrs. Annie Edson Taylor, 50 years old, went over Niagara Falls on the Canadian side and survived, a feat never before accomplished, and indeed never attempted except in the deliberate commission of suicide. She made the trip in a barrel. Not only did she survive, but she escaped without a broken bone, her only apparent injury being a scalp wound one and one-half inches long, a slight concussion of the brain, some shock to her nervous system and bruises about the body. She was conscious when taken out of the barrel. The doctors in attendance upon he Thursday said that though she was somewhat hysterical, her condition is not at all serious and that she will be out of bed within a few days.

After doing so they started for Cheese Hill, and in crossing the tracks of the N. Y. C. railroad their wagon was struck by a local freight and the occupants thrown out. The leaves are falling and things are beginning to present their chilly, desolate appearance, which comes with the winter months. The housewife has taken in her tender plants to protect them from the cruel biting of "Jack Frost." The young people are beginning to talk of chestnut parties, and we may soon expect the usual accidents which come with chestnut hunting.

—Frank Neubaker, of Danville, a brother of Mrs. Malcolm Laurie, of this place, met with a serious accident on Wednesday, While at work in the shovel mill at Danville he had his hand lacerated so that it was necessary to amputate the second, third and fourth fingers and the portion of the hand behind them to the wrist, leaving only the thumb and first finger on his hand. The unfortunate young man spent several weeks here during the summer and made a number of acquaintances who will regret to hear of his ill luck.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE ORGAN RECITAL.

Successful Musical Event Which Took Place in the Methodist Church Thursday Night.

Seldom indeed does a Bellefonte audience have the pleasure of listening to such a musical treat as was set forth at the Methodist Episcopal church Thursday evening, the occasion being the splendid and successful organ recital given by Miss Isabel MacDowell, organist of the Market Square Presbyterian church of Harrisburg, Pa. Miss MacDowell was ably assisted by Mrs Lillie Coyle Hench, soprano, Miss Mary Worley, contralto, and Mr. L. H. Kinnard, barytone, all of Harrisburg.

Miss MacDowell will be remembered as having given a splendid recital in this same church last April at the time of the presentation of the organ to the church by Mrs. Daniel H. Hastings, which received unstinted praise from the large audience present upon that occasion, but the recital given Thursday night is pronounced by those who heard both to be superior to the first one. Miss MacDowell is an organist of the first rank, with a touch and execution that is faultless. Her selections last night were high-class and beautiful, and their sweetness held the attention of the audience during their entire rendition.

Miss Hench, who has so kindly favored Bellefonte audiences in the past, sang in her usual excellent style Gounod's "O Divine Redeemer," her beautiful soprano voice appearing to the best possible advantage.

Miss Worley made her bow before a Bellefonte audience Thursday for the first time, and with her lovely contralto voice established herself at once as a favorite. She has a highly cultured and pleasing voice which she uses with exceptional ability.

Mr. Kinnard, the barytone singer, also came among us a stranger and although laboring under the disadvantage of a severe cold, he sang his part with rare [illegible] and proved a pleasure and joy to listen to.

The program rendered was well selected and most enjoyable and the large audience present were pronounced in their expressions of pleasure and appreciation.

A grain of sand in the eye can cause excruciating agony. A grain of pepper in place of the grain of sand intensifies the torment. The pain is not confined to the organs ffaected. The whole body feels the shock of that irritating particle. It is so when there is any derangement or disorder of the delicate womanly organs, The disorder may seem trivial but the whole body feels it. The nervous system is disordered. There are fretfulness, irritability, sullenness and depression of spirits. The general health of woman depends on the local health of the organs peculiarly feminine. Remove the drains, ulcerations, bearing down pains, and other afflictions of woman and the whole body feels the benefit. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a specific for the diseases that undermine the strength of women. It is free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics, poisons which enter into many other preparations for woman's use It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

A Bear in a Corn Field.

The appearance of a big black bear in the corn field of Michael Decker, near Centre Hall a day or two ago, caused much excitement in the village.

To reach the corn field the bear passed through the yard in front of the premises of E. E. Arney. Bruin passed slowly through the field husking an ear, occasionally, until he finally came upon Frank Decker, who was engaged in husking corn. Decker ran for help and soon returned with three men and as many guns. A young man named Schreckengast when within fifty feet of bruin fired, killing him instantly, The bear weighed over 200 pounds.

AN EFFECTIVE REMEDY.

A Series of Orders That Rejuvenated the Ailing Slaves.

A correspondent sends the following story of an old Virginia gentleman:

Some years before the war a gentleman of large landed interests counted among his possessions a plantation on the James river, an estate of considerable dimensions. Other interests kept him away from the old place for some years, during which time there was a marked decrease in the revenue. Upon his return to the plantation he discovered that many of the slaves were laid up with rheumatism and other miseries, the farming implements were in bad order and the old homestead was fast going to rack and ruin. Calling his overseer he said:

"Anderson, I notice a great many old wagons, plows and harrows about the place. Have them brought and piled in front of the house, and on Monday next order all the niggers on the place to be present."

At the appointed time they came. The pile was set on fire and the implements destroyed. The following week he called the overseer's attention to the sick and infirm horses, hogs and cattle and gave the same order. When the negroes had assembled all the animals were knocked in the head. The Friday following the landlord again called his overseer.

"Anderson, I see a great many sick niggers around here—many who seem to be laid up with rheumatism and are good for nothing. Give orders that on Monday morning at 10 o'clock they all appear in the front yard."

The effect on the slaves was magical. On Saturday men who had been unable to walk were skipping around like children; the sick grew well suddenly, and from that time on the plantation was most prosperous.—Exchange.

FOOD OF AMERICANS.

An English Woman Tells of the Strange Things She Ate Here.

An English woman who visited America a short time ago has been telling her country women about the "strange food across the water." Of course she discovered green corn, but she had been prepared for that. Oyster crabs were quite new to her.

"They look like Boston baked beans," she explains, "but they taste much better."

An oyster cocktail filled her with awe and enthusiasm. She tried it at Delmonico's and thought it was soup. Of course in England one didn't serve soup in a glass; but, then, neither did the English serve boiled eggs in a glass. One could never be sure of Americans.

Of canvasback duck she has a poor opinion, but thinks she might like it better if Americans would have it cooked [illegible] as for terrapin, she sings its praise. She found it much like calf's head, and she always liked calf's head. Shades of Maryland gourmets, what a slur is there!

"All the puddings in America are pie or ice cream," she says, but it must be understood that pie does not mean game pie. The Yankee pie is a tart and is ubiquitous, she explains.

She sat next to an American man who ate a lump of cheese with his strawberry pie and turned a plateful of ice cream over both, but she doesn't know that that is a general custom.

The oysters were good, but had most impossible names, and the cockles (meaning clams) are excellent. On the whole, Yankee food and cooking are good, but there is too much of the food on the table at one time.—New York Sun.

Portrait of Cocker.

Edward Cocker, who lived in the reign of Charles II., is chiefly known to the present generation by the saying in common use, "According to Cocker," which means in accordance with arithmetical rules. I saw the other day amid the treasures of a private collector a copy of the first edition of Cocker's immortal work on arithmetic, published by T. Passenger at the Three Bibles on London bridge. Only two, or at most three, perfect copies are known to the book collector. One is in the British museum. This particular copy, its brown morocco pitifully faded, bears on its title page the inscription, "Cocker's Arithmetick, Perused and Published by John Hawkins by the Author's Correct Copy."

It contains what purports to be a portrait of "ingenious Cocker." Experts, however, shake their heads over the authenticity of this work of art. There are many engraved portraits of the epoch, but there was only one Cocker. The British museum copy has no portrait, and there is too much reason to fear that this embellishment was added by some ingenious owner of an earlier century. Cocker died in 1676. This rare relic of the past bears date 1678.—Scotsman.

George's Father.

Augustine Washington, the father of George Washington, was engaged in 1732 in making pig iron at Accokeek furnace, in Stafford county, Va., about fifteen miles from Fredericksburg, when his famous son was born. This furnace had been built by the Principio company, composed of English capitalists, as early as 1726, on land owned by Augustine Washington, aggregating about 1,600 acres and containing iron ore, Mr. Washington becoming the owner of one-sixth of the furnace property in consideration of the transfer of his land to the company.

A MISERABLE MAN.

Two Years and Six Months Without Sleep.

Sleep seems to be in many cases a matter of habit, just as eating and drinking are habits. The Arab whose desert life leads to abstemiousness, declines the offer of a draught of water, saying, "No thank you, I drank yesterday." He drinks only when thirsty, and like his own camels, he can go long and far without water.

It's much the same with sleep. When Gabet and Huc, the French missionaries, were exploring Tartary they engaged in the translation of the Scriptures, working without intermission day and night. When one felt the need of sleep he lay on a couch, holding in his hand a ball, beneath which, on the floor, was a brazen bowl. When his muscles relaxed sufficiently to release the ball, it fell into the bowl, and the noise wakened the sleeper who resumed his work.

But it is one thing to give up sleep and another thing altogether to be unable to sleep. Those who suffer from asthma, bronchitis and other diseases of the organs of respiration are only too familiar with this enforced wakefulness. They would give almost anything for a night's unbroken rest.

THE SECRET OF SLEEP

for them lies in the cure of the diseases which banish slumber. That this cure is possible is abundantly proven by those who have used Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the cure of bronchitis, obstinate and deep-seated coughs, lung "trouble" and other diseases of the organs of respiration.

"I can this day say that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best and only remedy I have ever found for what the doctors call asthma," writes Mr. P. G. Rodemeyer, of 45 Hayden Street, Fort Wayne, Ind. "I have suffered from hay-fever (and I get the asthma with it), every year in August and September for the last fifteen years, and could not sleep one night during that time, until this year, I have not lost one night's sleep, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery; and best of all I did not get the asthma with the hay-fever, and I only used two bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

The cures accomplished by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" are as numerous as they are wonderful. The great triumphs of this medicine have been won in the cure of chronic diseases of many years standing. When every other medicine had failed to do more than give tempory relief, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made a perfect and permanent cure. Even when the disease was far advanced; when there were hemorrhages, night-sweats, emaciation and great weakness, "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured the disease and restored the strength.

WHAT FEW MEN KNOW,

is that catarrh in its commonest or simplest form is a menace not merely to health but to life. Catarrh of the lungs is but a step removed from consumption. Catarrhal affections should therefore never be neglected. They are as dangerous as they are offensive.

"For twelve years I was a sufferer from catarrh and was treated by one of the best physicians in the State of North Carolina, who said the trouble had reached my lungs," writes Mr. J. M. Patton, of Clotho, Transylvania Co., N. C. "I grew worse every day until I tried Dr. Pierce's medicines. Will say, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with one bottle of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cured me, and to-day I am well and hearty, and I will say further that my former physician, Dr. W. M. Lyday, recommends Dr. Pierce's medicine to me and to others. I am sure your medicines will cure any case of catarrh that exists. I recommend them to all."

By purifying the blood and increasing the activity of the blood-making glands "Golden Medical Discovery" strengthens every organ of the body. Accepting the fact that the blood is the life, it follows that the healthfulness of the physical life will depend upon the healthfulness of the blood, and that a deficient supply of blood must result in a deficiency of physical strength. "Golden Medical Discovery" gives health and strength by increasing the quantity and improving the quality of the blood. The evidence of this lies in the marked gain in weight experienced by those who have become emaciated by wasting disease, and who have been cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery." It is not a gain of flabby fat, but a gain of sound flesh and firm muscle, and with this gain of flesh and muscle comes a gain of strength, which seeks a new outlet for itself in active exercise. The frequent testimony, "It has made a new man of me," thoroughly expresses the real rejuvenation which comes to those cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." No so-called "just as good" medicine can compare with the "Discovery" when its record of cures is considered.

NINETEEN DEAD !

Awful Result of a Fire in Philadelphia.

PROPERTY LOSS IS $500,000.

Building Destroyed Was that of Hunt, Wilkinson & Company, 1219-21 Market street—It was an Eight Story Structure.

RUINS ARE BEING SEARCHED

PHILADELPHIA, October 26.—Nineteen known dead and property loss amounting to upwards of $500,000, is the awful result of a fire which occurred yesterday in the business section of the city. The number of the injured is not known definitely, but fully a score of victims were treated at various hospitals. Police and firemen are tonight delving into the ruins in search of bodies supposed to have been buried beneath the debris, as it is feared that others besides the known dead may have lost their lives in the flames. The buildings destroyed were the eight story structure, 1219 and 1221 Market street, occupied by Hunt, Wilkinson & Co., upholsterers and furniture dealers, and three three-story buildings occupied by small merchants. The big furniture building extended back a half block to Commerce street, and was owned by Henry C. Lea.

It was exactly 10:20 o'clock yesterday morning when Howard F. Street, a young man employed by Hunt, Wilkinson & Co., observed flames shooting up the elevator shaft from the basement. He was on the second floor and immediately gave the alarm to the other employes. He hastened to the street to notify a policeman. In the meantime the employes of the electrical bureau at the city hall, two blocks away, saw smoke issuing from the building and transmitted an alarm to the fire department. When the engines arrived the flames had enveloped the building from top to bottom and the intense heat from this terrific mass of flames made it almost impossible for the firemen to get within close range of the seething furnace. Ignoring the flames for the time being the brave fire fighters devoted their whole attention to the work of rescue. As some of them stood within the scorching heat of the fire with nets outspread to receive those who leaped from the burning building their comrades played lines of hose upon them. When their work in this respect was ended many of the firemen were completely exhausted. Most of the fatalities occurred in the rear of the building, as by common impulse the majority of the employes attempted to reach places of safety by means of the fire-escape on the Commerce street end of the structure. Many of them rendered practically insane by fright leaped to the ground and others, becoming unconscious from the smoke and intense heat fell to the pavement. When the firemen arrived Commerce street was filled with these unfortunate victims and for the space of an hour the police and hospital service was taxed to its utmost capacity.

By noon the fire was under control and at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a force of men, ordered by the department of public safety, began the work of clearing away the debris for the purpose of recovering the bodies of the victims buried in the ruins.

The loss last night was estimated at half million dollars, most of which will fall on Hunt, Wilkinson & Co., whose loss is estimated at $250,000. Henry C. Lea's loss on the building is about $150,000. William F. Potts & Son suffered a loss of $60,000, while other occupants of the Potts building and surrounding property owners suffered losses aggregating 25,000.

SCHOOL HOUSE DEDICATED.

Interesting Exercises at Baileyville Friday Evening.

On Friday evening, October 25th, at 8 o'clock, the handsome new school building at Baileyville was dedicated with appropriate services under the direction of the County Superintendent, Prof. C. L. Gramley, of Rebersburg. Good speakers and excellent music made up the evening's program, which proved highly pleasing to the large audience present. The speakers were Musser Heberling, Rev. C. T. Aikens, of Pine Grove Mills; Rev. A. A. Black, of Boalsburg, and Prof. Gramley.

Educational topics were discussed as follows: "The Parent's Relation to School Work," "Compulsory Education" and "Consolidating Rural Schools."

The school building cost $1,300 and was built by 'Squire Keller, of Pine Grove Mills. There are two schools in the building, the primary, taught by Miss Sadie Heberling, and the grammar, taught by Prof. Gates.

Dr. J. W. Bates of Corfu, N. Y., states: "A most remarkable case has come under my hands of late and has fully convinced me of the wonderful power of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills over diseases of the nerves.

"A young lady who was treated for over two years for epilepsy by two doctors was given up to die. I found that her sickness was not epilepsy, but nervous troubles, due to menstrual derangements, and prescribed four of Dr. Chase's Nerve Pills a day, after meals and at bed-time. Since that time she has not had a single bad spell. Her health has rapidly improved, she has gained about fifteen pounds in weight, and I do not hesitate to state that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills have saved her life and restored her to health."

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.

FOR PROTHONOTARY,
EDWARD C. McKINLEY,
of Bogg's Twp.

EDITORIAL.

"Judge Love is the recognized leader of the Quay forces in Centre county."—John Hamilton to the Republican county convention, July 30, 1901.

IF you believe in and want ballot reform and an honest anti-corrupt system of registration you should vote for each constitutional amendments on the ticket next Tuesday.

GENERAL MILES, it is said, has become convinced of the wisdom of abolishing the army canteen, although heretofore he has been one of its strongest advocates. The War Department has received reports of a conflicting nature in regard to the effect of the abolishing of the canteens, and it is likely that the question will be revived during the coming winter.

THE Republican candidate for Prothonotary, Edward C. McKinley, of Boggs township, is a man worthy of the highest respect and esteem of his fellow citizens. He is an honest, upright man and has been an earnest and faithful worker for the Republican party in Centre county. He represents no political faction but is the nominee of his party and should receive the suffrage of his party.

WE urge the Republicans of Centre county not to allow factional differences to withold their support from Edward C. McKinley, the Republican candidate for Prothonotary. We reiterate a previous statement that he is not the candidate of a faction. He is the candidate of the Republican party, duly and regularly nominated in a Republican convention. He is entitled to the united party vote. He is worthy of a united party vote and the Republicans of Centre county should give him a united party vote.

A SWEEPING VICTORY.

Throughout Pennsylvania the prospects brighten. Every circumstance points to a triumph for the Union ticket next Tuesday. The machine forces are discouraged and dismayed. In Philadelphia their only hope is in the wholesale pollution of the ballot-box. But the men who might attempt this work desire neither the peace of the penitentiary nor the homeless fate of Salter. Perhaps, if they felt sure the machine would win, they might take the risk, but even the criminal politicians are not always fools, and in this situation there is only danger for crime. There could be no hope for them if arraigned before an honest court and prosecuted by a District Attorney elected by the forces of decency and reform. Moreover, they know that the machine would quickly abandon them to their fate if they should be caught. Without their work, and with the overseers and the purging of the lists, the machine faces defeat.

From all parts of the State cheering reports are coming. With many of the faithful followers of the machine abandoning the head of the ticket, there is no heart in the fight.

In this last week of the campaign the machine forces show their hopelessness even in their efforts to appear confident. They feel disaster, and they are wondering how large it will be. Fusion leaders everywhere express surprise at the increasing numbers of Republicans whose regularity has never been questioned who are not only expressing their intention of voting the Union ticket but are working actively in its behalf. People feel that this is the time to deal a blow to corrupt politics, and they are going to see that it is done.

Every independent this year should show the pride that is within him by doing all he can to roll up the majority to such figures that it will be overwhelming. The opportunity is great. It is a fight for virtue, for cleanliness, for honesty, for the home and for all that is useful and decent in public and civil life. and a victory now means that larger sweep of reform which will roll from the Delaware to the Lakes, and wash the corruption from the City Hall, from the State Capitol, and from all the other official centres which are now the strongholds of the discredited and demoralized machine. xxx

STUFF AND NONSENSE.

"It would be a calamity, both from a party and a patriotic standpoint, if Pennsylvania should this year fail to register a Republican majority for the State ticket quite up to the usual standard in off years. It would not only seem to show a want of confidence in President Roosevelt, now standing upon the threshold of his high office, but would also very seriously prejudice the Republican party in the important campaign which will be waged in the State next year. Party success, business activity and national prosperity are all staked upon the result this year, and whether we shall win a great victory or not depends upon the services which are rendered by the active workers throughout the State."

In the foregoing language Chairman Frank Reeder, of the Republican State committee, appeals, by personal letter, to the Republicans in the State to rally around the standard of the Republican State ticket and work for its success at the polls next month. With the thoughtful, intelligent Republicans, Chairman Reeder's address will have little or no influence. The revolt against Quayism and machine rule in Pennsylvania is not a revolt against the Republican party. The Republicans of Pennsylvania have always been staunch and loyal in National campaigns. They gave the peerless McKinley their united support in 1896 and 1900 and when President Roosevelt requires the support and indorsement of the Republicans of Pennsylvania he will receive it with the same spirit and effectiveness with which it was given to his lamented predecessor. Factional differences have not divided the Pennsylvania Republicans in National contests in the past nor are they likely to in the future.

The contest in Pennsylvania this fall is waged against a political machine; an organized band of treasury looters and corruptionists. The issues are purely of the State and in nowise are questions of National concern involved. The defeat of the Machine State ticket will not imperil the future of the Republican party, on the other hand it will mean the reorganization of the party in the State under the banner of true Republicanism, the Republicanism that Lincoln, Grant and McKinley upheld and defended, the Republicanism that Roosevelt represents and will give his best efforts to promote.

The Republicans who will vote against the Machine State candidates will be found to a man with Roosevelt when he requires their indorsement and suffrage.

DISCIPLINE AT WEST POINT.

The investigation of the hazing practices at the military academy at West Point has already borne good fruit, as is shown by the annual report of the superintendent, Col. A. L. Mills. He says that the discipline of the corps of cadets has greatly improved, and that so far as his knowledge goes not one case of maltreatment of a new cadnt occurred at the summer encampment, the time when hazing to a considerable extent had been practiced in previous years.

As the investigation was brought about by the widespread publicity of the hazing outrages, to give them their proper term, and the consequent indignation throughout the country, the restoration of discipline at West Point may be set down as another triumph for public opinion. It will be remembered that at the conclusion of the inquiry the cadets pledged their honor to refrain from hazing in the future, and it is gratifying to learn from the report of Col. Mills that thus far the promises have been faithfully fulfilled. [illegible] end has been put to nagging on the part of instructors and others vested with authority, and to the long-standing practice of compelling new cadets to perform services of a menial nature. The changes have been decidedly beneficial all around, and, as Col. Mills expresses it, "diligence and discretion on the part of the responsible officers will make these reforms permanent without in the slightest degree marring the perfection of drill, appearance and discipline." There is now thorough discipline at West Point, and it will be the fault of those in authority if it is not made lasting.

VALUE OF OUR AGRICULTURE.

The farm value of this year's crop of wheat, corn, oats, rye, barley, flaxseed, potatoes, hay, apples and cotton is $2,532,000,000. This is more than the census of 1890 gives for the value of all agricultural products. And yet in the above estimate there is no calculation of vegetables other than potatoes, of fruits and berries and nuts, of garden truck, of forest products, of flowers and plants, of live stock slaughtered, of milk and butter and cheese and eggs and a thousand and one other products that help to swell the grand total. The statistician that estimates the value of our farm products at $8,000,000,000 or $9,000,000,000 would seem more conservative than liberal.

A QUESTION OF MORE OR LESS.

A curious will was left by the late Peter J. Gergen, of Milwaukee. It has the familiar ring of the arithmetic, providing as it does that the estate of $3,500 shall be divided as follows: Mary to receive for her share $700 more than the other children; Nicholas to receive $50 less than the other children; John to receive $70 less than the other children; Anna to receive $30 less than the other children; Joseph, Peter, Gabriel and Frank to receive an equal share, which shall be $200 less than Mary. $50 more than Nicholas, $70 more than John, and $30 more than Anna.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30, 1901.

Your correspondent called on Secretary of the Treasury Gage, after his return from Milwaukee and asked the Secretary to somewhat further elucidate his financial creed as given to the American Banker's Association. Mr. Gage replied that he hardly cared to go into the subject more extensively at this time as he was just preparing his annual report, and that to do so would be to "steal the thunder" from that. "Then I understand that an elucidation of those ideas and the methods by which they may be carried out will form the chief topic of your report?" was asked. "Not precisely. I did not say that," the Secretary replied. "But substantially?" "Well to a considerable extent." "Mr. Secretary, the papers opposed to the administration are charging you with favoring the bankers at the expense of the people and that by your system you would put the people entirely in the power of the bankers." "Of course, that was to be expected. But that arises from a wrong conception of the facts. Those papers don't, or won't appreciate that the prosperity of the bankers depends upon the prosperity of the people, that their interests are identical." "Would you not place in the hands of the bankers the power to inflate or contract the currency at will?" "My idea is simply to get the government out of the banking business. That is not its province and it is the province of the banks. But you must wait for my annual report for further details."

Speaking of financial conditions in the West, Mr. Gage said that he found everything satisfactory." That there was no evidence "that crop failures would result in an increase of farm mortgages, and in fact the Republican prosperity showed every evidence of continuing at the flood." The Secretary further said "We have right here in the Treasury a barometer which is never failing in the demand for bills of small denominations. We are working our force at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing two hours overtime and the mill that manufactures the paper on which they are printed, is turning out four million extra sheets per day and still we cannot supply the demand. That is the best evidence in the world that the crops are moving smoothly and that money is in general circulation. Yes there is abundant prosperity in the West."

President Roosevelt returned from New Haven Thursday morning, and on Friday morning held the first fully attended Cabinet meeting of his administration. He somewhat surprised his Cabinet by the announcement that he would write his entire message himself instead of calling upon the various members to write those portions dealing with the work of their respective departments. He further stated that it was his intention to state the fact, without making recommendation, in regard to several of the important matters Congress would have to consider. He read some excerpts from the message and the impression of his advisers was that the paper would be a conservative, terse production, probably somewhat shorter than has heretofore been the case. It is said that he will recommend the establishment of a Department of Commerce and Industry.

Before committing himself on the reciprocity treaties, it is his desire to learn the views of prominent Republican Senators, and to that end he has summoned a number to the White House. The Hay-Pauncefote treaty will also be liberally discussed. The President has had a conference with Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, who, it will be recalled, advised President McKinley that the Senate was not favorable to any more reciprocity treaties or to any revision of the Dingley tariff bill. What he advised Colonel Roosevelt is not known although a great deal of curiosity attaches to his call.

An important change in the State Department is announced in the resignation of the third assistant Secretary, Mr. Thomas W. Cridley, and the appointment in his place of Mr. Herbert H. D. Pierce, of Massachusetts, now first Secretary of the American Embassy, at St. Petersburg. The statement is made that Mr. Cridler's resignation was called for by Secretary Hay as a result of what he considered lack of judgment on Mr. Cridler's part in the handling of claims of American citizens against the Sultan of Morocco.

OFFICIAL figures of the Treasury Bureau of Statistics show that the United States continues to lead the world in exports. For nine months ending with September our exports were $1,024,605,181, against 1,018,845,768 from Great Britian, our nearest competitor. As compared with the first nine months of 1900 our exports show an increase of about $1,500,000 a month, while Great Britian decreased about $5,000,000 a month, and Germany's decrease nearly $1,000,000 a month.

ARRANGEMENTS have been made for a National Reciprocity Convention to be held in Washington for three days, beginning Nov. 19. It will be conducted under the auspices of the National Association of Manufacturers and its deliberations will doubtless furnish Congress with ammunition for a war of debate upon the question of reciprocal trade relations at its coming session.

THE agricultural crops of 1901 as a whole are the smallest for years. THAT'S PROVIDENCE. The values of agricultural crops for 1901 are the largest for years. THAT'S PROTECTION.

Woman's Most Charming Age.

At what age is woman most attractive? Such was the question discussed the other day by a bachelor of 40 and a man of 60.

Said the man of 60: "How social customs are changing! Forty years ago the novels had heroines of sweet 16 and heroes of 21, who got married and lived happily ever after, bless their dear little hearts! A man of 35 was considered quite elderly; as for 40, he was positively old, and at 65 he was almost antique. A woman of 25 was supposed to be in the sere and yellow leaf, and if at 30 she was still unmarried she was placed on the shelf of 'has beens.' After that she knit stockings, or made petticoats, or minded the other women's babies."

"I agree with you," said the charming bachelor of 40, "that the heroine of today is a vastly more interesting person. Balzac made quite a departure when he eulogized the fascinations of the woman past 30, but there are numerous examples in history which tend to show that a woman does not reach her full mental development until she is 35. I heard an author say the other day that he liked best to study women between the ages of 30 and 40. They had then the experience of the world and retained much of the enthusiasm and vivacity of youth. An artist, on the other hand, argued that he disliked to paint the portraits of women between the ages of 25 and 40 years. Before 25 the face, he claimed, has an expectancy that charms; it is full of puzzling promises, unrealized possibilities. At 40 the character is formed, the lines are more definite, but the expression of expectancy has faded."

"I don't agree with either of you," broke in the woman of the trio, who had been listening silently, but attentively. "Historians may cite instances of woman's power in the 30 to 40 decade of her existence, but it does not need history to relate her charms at 20. Youth, lovely youth, is woman's greatest attraction, and whatever you can quote to the contrary the October woman knows in her heart that she would infinitely prefer to exchange certain domination for a brief period to the innocent, lovely regency of the girl just out of her teens. Today the October woman is charming, tomorrow she is old. I don't believe that humanity will ever outgrow the stage where extreme youth has its sure fascinations."

But then this particular lady has a charming daughter just 21, and the bachelor is good looking, rich and desirable, so perhaps she is not quite an unprejudiced judge.

—The Thanksgiving number of The Ladies' Home Journal is replete with good fiction and interesting and novel features. It opens appropriately with an article which tells "Where the President's Turkey Comes From." Then Butterworth and Laura Spencer Portor, and a new love story called "Christine," by Frederick M. Smith. Will Bradley's original designs for a house begins with the breakfast room, Wilson Eyre, Jr., presents plans for a country-house and a garden. Mr. Bok gives much good advise to young married couples in his editorial. Many home-made Christmas gifts are shown, and the first of "The Journal's Amusing Puzzles" appear. The regular departments are exceptionally good and the illustrations superb. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar a year; ten cents a copy.

Troubled by a "Ghost."

A sensation has been caused in Montgomery and vicinity by the almost nightly appearance of an alleged ghost, which has followed and terrorized a number of persons on the road between that place and Clintonville. The "ghost" first made its appearance near the place where the quadruple murder was committed by rag peddler Hummel and superstitious people declare that the appartion is the ghost of Hummel's murdered wife.

—The inspection train on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad passed through Bellefonte Tuesday afternoon. The following officials were on the train: Superintendent S. S. Blair, Chief Trainmaster R. B. Freeman, Supervisor Edward McCormick, of Tyrone, and General Superintendent W. M. Wallis, of Altoona. A prize of $50 will be given to the section foreman who has the best sub-division of the Tyrone division of the Pennsylvania railroad.

—The fact that Patrolman Frank Bradley of the Altoona police force, was found drunk on duty on Saturday night and was discharged from the force, has caused an edict to be sent forth that any policeman found taking a drink on duty, or who is seen in a hotel or barroom while on duty unless called there to make an arrest, will be fired from the force bag and baggage.

—Mr. Albert Cottle, one of the oldest residents in Beech Creek township, fell down the stairs in his barn a few days ago and was severely injured. Dr. Sayler J. McGhee found, upon examination, several ribs fractured and other minor injuries. As Mr. Cottle is a very old man, his condition is regarded as somewhat serious.

A LIVING BAROMETER.

The Crablike Spider That Poses as Yucatan's Weather Sharp.

In Yucatan, a land of many curiosities, there is a living barometer in the form of a small spider, called "am" on account of the effect produced by its poison. As far as its own conduct goes, the insect is inoffensive and can be handled with impunity, but if anybody has the misfortune to get one mysteriously mixed with his food he is certain to die after a few hours and meanwhile for some unexplained reason will frequently ejaculate "Am, am, am!" hence the name of the spider. Throughout the peninsula this is affirmed to be a fact, and if an am falls into fodder of horses or mules the animal that swallows it surely dies.

This spider is shaped like a crab, minus the claws, and is of a bright yellow color, with brown spots; the biggest could be accommodated upon a silver dime. Its favorite abode is among the leaves of the banana shrub, commonly, but erroneously, called tree. There it spins with extreme rapidity, its web, which is prodigiously large, considering the size of its architect, and proceeds to devour the flies that are unlucky enough to get entangled in the meshes of this astonishing little glutton, that is not satisfied with less than a dozen a day—that is to say, it consumes a good deal more than its own bulk. Its progeny is numerous and appears at first like more black specks, smaller than the smallest pin's head.

The sky may be blue and cloudless when suddenly the am commences taking in its sails, or, rather, gathering in its net, with neatness and dispatch, cramming the whole of the material into its diminutive body entirely out of sight. A few minutes completes the job, and the spider takes up its position on the under surface of one of the great leaves to be lulled by the gentle swaying and sheltered while the storm rages. It is for this that the am has prepared, and never is it mistaken. When the web is taken in, rain will certainly fall within an hour.

The moment the am is touched it feigns death and lets itself drop, showing no sign of life until again placed upon a leaf or on the ground. Many a one has lain in the palm of the writer's hand inert, all its legs drawn close to its body, while it was examined at leisure, even being picked up in the fingers without its manifesting any life.

BEAUTY SPOTS.

Try lemon juice for whitening the neck. Apply it with a linen cloth.

After the head has been shampooed, whenever possible, give the head a sun bath.

A writer states that oily hands may be made comfortable and touchable by wetting them once or twice a day while clean with cologne, alcohol or toilet vinegar.

A good circulation is essential to the growth of the hair as well as to its color and fineness. A frequent, vigorous brushing with a stiff brush is the best method of obtaining this.

A writer upon the complexion says the best way to treat freckles, a sure cure in all but very obstinate cases, is to touch them night and morning with a camel's hair brush after dipping it in lemon juice.

For a greasy skin nothing is better than the combination of an ounce of dried rose leaves, half a pint of white wine vinegar and half a pint of rosewater. Let the vinegar stand on the rose leaves for a week, then add the rosewater. Use a tablespoonful in a cup of distilled water.

A Geological Fallacy.

Probably the most wild and unjustifiable of all the crude beliefs respecting geological resources is that which holds to the conviction that by going deep enough the drill is sure to find something of value, no matter at what point the work of boring is commenced.

There are numerous wise persons in every community, estimable, influential and in the highest degree public spirited who are convinced that the question, for example, of finding coal in their special locality is simply a matter of the depth to which the explorations are carried. Rock oil and natural gas are recognized as desirable products in every progressive community, and every such community contains persons in other respects intelligent who are ready to stake their own fortune and that of their nearest friends on the belief that oil and gas are everywhere underneath the surface and that their sources can be tapped with the drill provided only there is sufficient capital to keep up the process of drilling long enough.—Mines and Minerals.

Professional Shoppers.

Professional shoppers are employed by a certain large firm of London drapers to test the abilities of shop assistants. This firm owns over thirty large shops and employs nearly 1,000 assistants. To find out whether every customer is politely served a number of lady customers are employed to call at the various shops. They are told to give as much trouble as possible and sometimes to leave without making a purchase after looking at nearly everything in the shop. Should the unfortunate assistant's temper not be equal to the strain, or should a single word be said that might offend, a report will infallibly reach headquarters and lead to the dismissal of the sorely tried handler of silks and ribbons.

—A letter reached the Clearfield postoffice on Oct. 5th, which had been mailed at Orange Heights, Florida, Oct. 17, 1900. It contained a money order and had just been one year on the way.

Moving for Annexation.

The action of the business men of Havana and other cities of the island in circulating petitions in favor of Cuban annexation is just what everybody had a right to expect. The merchants of the island, it appears, think that the movement in favor of reciprocity will not amount to anything and want to make sure of favorable trade terms with the United States by the one method which would be absolutely certain to be effective.

It is understood that a large majority of the business element of the island wants annexation. This has been the understanding all along. At the present juncture, however, the friends of annexation are beginning to take practical steps to secure their object.

Smoked to Many Cigarettes.

At Renovo a few days ago, Vince Laverson, of Williamsport, who had gone to that place to work, suddenly became ill. He was rigid when the physicians arrived. They worked with him several hours before they restored him to consciousness. Cigarette smoking is blamed for the boy's serious illness.

Boy's Skull Trephined.

James Johnson, aged 12 years, of Sinnemahoning, while watching woodsmen in the forest "skinding" bark, was struck a terrific blow on the head by a piece of bark that flew out of the shute. He was taken to the Williamsport hospital, where his skull was trephined.

—Harrison Mickerson, a woodsman, was crushed to death a few days ago while working in the woods near Lovett. Mickerson was badly injured two years ago while working on Pine Creek and was reported as being dead.

—John Ulrich, of near York, is 74 years old and his wife is 85, and very feeble. They wanted to go to the fair on Thursday of last week, and, having no other way in which to do it, the old man loaded her on a two-wheeled cart that he had made and wheeled her to the grounds, a distance of more than two miles, carted her about the grounds and afforded her an opportunity to see most of what was going on.

—A good percentage of farmers are taking advantage of the law giving them the right to prevent hunting on their premises by posting notices. The law referred to was passed to protect land-owners against the hog-hunters who were destructive to property when passing over hunting grounds. The innocent must now suffer for the hog-hunter's misdeeds. In some cases farmers compel hunters to pay the stipulated fine, half of which goes to his own pocket.

—Four young boys, not one of whom is over eleven years of age, stole a twelve pound box of "Red Cross" chewing tobacco out of the Beech Creek station a short time ago and the matter has just leaked out. The lads dealt it out to other boys and all had a fine time. Now the tune has changed and they are alarmed over the fact that the railroad authorities are investigating the affair and George Berryhill, of Blanchard, to whom the tobacco was consigned, is not inclined to have the matter settled amicably.

—Some of the men and boys who go to the woods after game are not fit to be trusted with fire-arms. Hunting accidents are of almost daily occurrence now that the season has opened, and they will continue to occur so long as thoughtless and reckless persons fail to realize the danger of shooting at everything that resembles a bird or an animal or do not know any better than to handle their guns as if they were pieces of wood. There should be a law passed, for the protection of careful hunters as well as for the protection of game,

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should be Answered Easily by Bellefonte People.

Which is wiser, to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow citizens or depend on statements made by utter strangers? Read this:

Mr, Walter Whippo of Water street, leading horse-shoer of Bellefonte, says: "I have a good word to say for Doan's Kidney Pills. I was miserable with backache and a lameness across my loins. I knew it was from my kidneys, for I had suffered from it prior to that. Sometimes I could hardly straighten after bending forward which greatly interfered with my work. I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills procured them at F. Potts Green's drug store and began using them. I had taken other medicine and worn plasters but I never had anything act as promptly as Doan's Kidney Pills. I have been quite free from the whole trouble ever since."

Many people were in town on Saturday and the stores of A. A. Frank, N. A. Auman and D. J. Neiman did a rushing trade. At Neiman's store the crowd was immense, and many left as they could not be waited upon. Davy, get more help on Saturdays so that you can accommodate the people.

J. C. Snooks, who lives on the J. P. Gephart farm near town, has a good crop of corn. He brought one ear to town that had over 1,100 grains of corn on it. It will average about 100 bushels to the acre. The corn is called the "Yellow Dent."

As this is corn-husking time will someone rise and explain why corn on the cob has always an even number of rows?

Quite a number of Penns Valley people attended the funeral of Henry Brungart at Rebersburg last Friday.

The crack of the rifle and shot gun is heard since the opening of the season, but game does not appear to be very plenty, except pine squirrels, to judge by the game bags of the hunters. Ask Charley Shearer how many pinels and chippies he has shot this season.

What to Wear This Winter.

A charming new wrap is a Russian blouse, made of shaggy material to wear with a short skirt.

Trimmings of heavy braid and galloon will be worn more than ever before.

Green is the favorite color of the season, the more subdued shades prevailing.

Black silk waists, to be worn with odd skirts of black serge, cloth or cheviot, are much in vogue.

For evening wear nothing is more popular than black net or mousseline over black or white silk.

The new flannel waists have flat buttons and long-waisted pouch fronts.

Small metal buttons are much used for trimming dresses this autumn.

The pagoda sleeve is the latest thing in Paris. It is small at the top and widens toward the bottom, where it becomes quite large.

Some of the newest things in furs are long stoles, or little round collars with long tabs. Little tight-fitting fur coats are also popular.—November Ladies' Home Journal.

Corner Stone Laid at Munson.

The corner stone of the new Methodist Episcopal church, which is in course of erection at Munson, to take the place of one worth $2,300, which was destroyed by fire July 31 of this year, which fire was the work of an incendiary, was laid Oct. 27, at 5 o'clock.

The services prior to this particular one were held in the United Mine Workers' hall, Rev. N. H. Smith, of Morrisdale preached at 10:30 a. m., from Isaac xxviii, 16.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock Rev. J. G. Baum, of the German Baptist congregation, gave a fine address, which was followed by Revs. Smith, and Rishell. The German band gave several very pretty renderings in the afternoon also.

At the conclusion of the services in the hall the congregation repaired to the new church where all was in readiness to place the beautiful marble corner stone in place which was the gift of Mr. A. T. Shupe, of Philipsburg.

Revs. Smith, Rishell, Baum and the pastor participated in the exercises peculiar to the laying of the stone. Rev. C. W. Rishell, of Woodland, preached finely at 7:30 to another large audience in the hall. During the day about $270 was subscribed to the new church project, a great part of which sum was cash.

Thus ended another memorable day in the history of Munson Methodism. It is expected that this church will be ready to dedicate about Christmas time, since it is well on the way now toward completion

ANCIENT UMBRELLAS

THEY FIGURED IN CHURCHES IN THE EARLY CHRISTIAN DAYS.

When First Adopted by the Public, They Seem to Have Been Utilized Solely as Sun Protectors—Once an Attribute of Dignity.

In the early Christian churches a large umbrella usually hung over the priest, and it is said that from this custom it became one of the attributes of cardinals appointed from basilican churches. For years the doges of Venice carried umbrellas of state, and in 1288 Pope Alexander III. declared that these should be surmounted by golden statuettes of the annunciation.

Michael Morosini was the first Venetian layman to carry an umbrella, which consisted of a small, flat square of green stuff, over which was a copper spiral. Soon after the umbrella was adopted by fashionable Venetian dames. According to Coryat's "Crudities" (1611), the Italian umbrella was a small canopy and was made of leather extended by a series of wooden hoops. He says umbrellas were used by horsemen, who, resting the handles on the thigh as they rode, bore them so that they should "minister shadow unto them for shelter against the scorching sun."

In the Harleian manuscripts, now in the British museum, there is in manuscript No. 603 a crude illustration showing the figure of a yoeman holding an umbrella over his lord, which leads me to infer that umbrellas were known in England even in the early Anglo-Saxon period.

Beck, as quoted in the Draper's Dictionary, asserts that at the time that Stephen usurped the crown of England (twelfth century) umbrellas were in common use among the English. The first mention of the umbrella in English literature is in Florio's "World of Wonders" (1598), where it is described as a "kind of round fan or shadowing that they use to ride with in summer in Italy; a little shade."

In 1656 an umbrella was exhibited in the "Museum Tradescantianum; or, Collection of Rarities Preserved at South Lambeth, Near London, by John Tradescant," which was known as "one of the wonders of the ark."

In the church of Cartmell, in Lancashire, England, there was preserved until a few years ago an umbrella said to be over 300 years old, which was used chiefly to protect the host.

References to the umbrella are to be found also in Blount's "Glossographia" (1674) and Phillips' "New Worlde of Words" (1678). In the first the reference reads: "Umbrello, a fashion of round and broad fans, wherewith the Indians (and from them our great ones) preserve themselves from the heat of the sun, and hence any little shadow, fan or other thing wherewith the women guard their faces from the sun." The second runs: "Umbrello, a screen against the sun's heat, used chiefly by the Spaniards, among whom it is known by the name quitasole."

The imaginative Dean Swift in the "Tale of a Tub" (1696) depicts Jack, an ever resourceful type, making use of a parchment copy of his father's will as a nightcap when he went to bed and as an umbrella in rainy weather. Did the worthy Hanway take his cue from this or from Kersey, according to whom the umbrella was a "broad fan or screen commonly used by women to shelter them from rain?" The last reference, made in 1709, is the first mention of it as a protector from the rain. Later Bailey, who in his dictionary (1737) called it a parasol, defined it as "a sort of small canopy to keep off the rain."

Small, light umbrellas came into fashion among the ladies of the French court in 1675, and these were carried by attendants. Richelet tells us that they were made of oilcloth or leather and had ribs of whalebone. A century later they found favor with the men, who carried red umbrellas, with edges fringed with gold lace.

The precise date when Jonas Hanway, who died in 1786, introduced the umbrella into England is not recorded in any of the encyclopedias I have at hand, but they all state that he was popularly known as its introducer.

With the Dutch, as with the Indian grandees, the umbrella was first an attribute of dignity, and well it might be, for the prices paid for them at The Hague in 1650 ranged from $75 to $120 each. The Dutch colonists who settled at the Cape of Good Hope were not slow to insist on preserving the dignity of the umbrella, for Ryk van Tulbagh, governor of Cape Colony in 1752, enacted that "No one less in rank than a junior merchant or those among the citizens of equal rank, and the wives and daughters only of those who are or have been members of any council shall venture to use umbrellas, and those who are less in rank than merchants shall not enter the castle in fine weather with an open umbrella."—Frank H. Vizetelly in New York Times.

A Nongolfer's Opinion of Golf.

Imagine a great fat creature who ought to wear a turban and a long black robe to hide his grossness whacking a little white ball for miles and miles with a perfect surgery of instruments, whacking it either with a babyish solemnity or a childish rage, as luck may have decided, and incidentally training an innocent eyed little boy to swear and be a tip hunting loafer. That's golf.—H. T. W. Wells in Pearson's Magazine.

To the Best of Her Knowledge.

A lady was looking for her husband and inquired anxiously of a housemaid, "Do you happen to know anything of your master's whereabouts?"

"I'm not sure, mum," replied the careful domestic, "but I think they're in the wash."—Pathfinder.

A QUESTION OF TEETH.

Did the Immortal George Wear Artificial or Natural Ones?

"George Washington's false teeth, which were supposed to have been made of ivory, are giving a certain class of freak historians about as much trouble as they must have given the venerable patriot who wore them," said one of the professors of the Smithsonian institution to a reporter recently.

"Many times a year for several years this institution has been called upon to produce these mysterious teeth for the inspection of persons who insist that they are here.

"Our matter of fact answer to these inquiries that Washington had no false teeth, or at least if he did, that they are not in the possession of the museum, seems only to stimulate the inquiring mind to protest our statement. They proceed to give us authentic accounts of these teeth and always conclude with expressing the belief that they must be in the museum somewhere.

"Where or how the idea that Washington had false teeth originated is an unsolved mystery. That it is firmly believed by many is certainly a fact. There seems to be no authentic record of the Father of His Country possessing ivory teeth, and by a study of the bust we have of him, which was made but a few years before his death, there is no indication of an indentation along the line of the gums such as can be noticed in persons who have had their teeth drawn, even though they wear artificial ones. However, we will continue to answer the same question in the same way probably many times in the future."

According to some biographers Washington lost his teeth during his service as commander in chief of the Continental army and had a set of ivory ones made. These teeth, it is also stated, gave him much trouble because they did not fit.—Washington Star.

RAILWAY RUMBLES.

Ireland claims the honor of the first electric railway in the United Kingdom.

It is said that the cheapest railway fares in the world are to be found in Hungary.

Denmark has a government railroad system of 1,167 miles and 525 miles of private railroads.

The Servian, Roumanian and Bulgarian railroads are owned exclusively by the respective governments.

Travelers on Prussian railways whose baggage, through no fault of their own, fails to arrive with them can now have it sent on request free to their houses.

The difficulty of railway construction in some parts of Africa is illustrated by the fact that on the Freetown-Mattru line, in Sierra Leone, eleven steel bridges had to be built in a distance of only thirty kilometers.

A representative of the Paris Temps has been examining railway stations in Germany, and he declares that those of Dresden, Cologne, Hanover, Frankfort, Bremen, etc., are far superior to any of the French except the Parisian.

Paying a Creditor.

Like many another famous man both before his time and since, Talleyrand exhibited, at least in early life, a great reluctance to settling with his creditors. When he was appointed bishop of Autun by Louis XVI., he considered a fine new coach to be necessary to the proper maintenance of the dignity of that office. Accordingly a coach was ordered and delivered, but not paid for. Some time after, as the newly appointed bishop was about to enter his coach, he noticed a strange man standing near who bowed continually until the coach was driven away. This occurred for several days until at length Talleyrand, addressing the stranger, said:

"Well, my good man, who are you?"

"I am your coachmaker, my lord," replied the stranger.

"Ah," said Talleyrand, "you are my coachmaker! And what do you want, my coachmaker?"

"I want to be paid, my lord."

"Ah, you are my coachmaker, and you want to be paid? You shall be paid, my coachmaker."

"But when, my lord?"

"Hum," said Talleyrand, settling himself comfortably among the cushions of his new coach and eying his coachmaker severely, "you are very inquisitive!"

Salad Eating Good Sense.

Even men are progressing gastronomically. Scientific dietetics has at last revealed to us the fact that the woman who eats salad on a hot day in July, August or September is displaying sound gastronomic sense, says What to Eat. The long haired dreamer in the restaurant may have been nineteen different kinds of a fool upon every other proposition in life, but he knew what to eat on a hot day. The human animal needs grass or its equivalent in summer. With their oil the salads supply everything a man physically needs in hot weather. All the civilized races of the world are salad eaters, but Americans eat less than do any other people. It is not a sign of mental decay or moral degeneracy for a man to eat salad; it is gastronomic sense.

Harpers Ferry.

Harpers Ferry was named after Robert Harper, an architect and mill builder, born in 1703 in the town of Oxford, England. He came to America in 1735 with his brother Joseph and located in Philadelphia, where for a time he prospered but, failing later, concluded to join the Friends of Loudoun county, Va. En route to his new home he came upon the gap in the Blue Ridge mountains, where he made his home.

A DOMESTIC COMEDY.

THE VARIED RESULTS OF REARRANGING THE FURNITURE.

Mrs. Blank's Mania For Changing the Appearance of the Rooms Brought Trouble to the Male Contingent and Sorrow to Herself.

"Do you change the position of the furniture when you clean a room?" inquired housewife No. 1 of a friend in the course of a heart to heart talk.

"Do I? Why, yes, indeed! I don't feel as if the room is cleaned unless I change the furniture a little bit. Do you?"

"Well, I usually change the ornaments around and so forth, but in the spring and fall I like to change everything in a room—completely alter the whole appearance of it. Then I fancy the things are all new, and they seem to look prettier somehow. But, do you know, my husband doesn't like it at all!"

"Neither does mine! Isn't that singular? Men are so peculiar!"

"Yes, indeed they are!"

So many housekeepers share the views of these two that a story with a moral will not be out of place.

It was the other night only that Mr. Blank went unsuspiciously up stairs to bed at an unusually early hour, leaving his wife reading in the sitting room. He had a headache and carried a goblet of water in his right hand. Fearlessly advancing into the dark bedroom Mr. Blank suddenly felt both legs violently cut from under him. He clutched wildly at the air and said several things of an exclamatory nature, but there was nothing to save him. He went down.

"Good gracious, Henry!" ejaculated Mrs. Blank, hurrying to the scene of disaster. "What is the matter? Where are you? Why don't you light the gas?" Suiting the action to the word, she beheld her husband sprawling across the bed; the glass he had carried had discharged its contents across the pillowshams and shivered on the floor.

Mr. Blank did the talking for the next ten minutes. He said that of all the blankety blank folly of which the mind could conceive this of changing furniture around was the worst. He said it was a pretty thing for a man to walk into his own room and have to fall over things in the dark. He said he wouldn't stand it; the furniture must be replaced where it formerly stood.

"I shan't do anything of the kind," replied Mrs. Blank. "It looks very much nicer where it is. Why don't you feel where you are going when you get into a dark room?"

"S'pose you'd like me to crawl in on all fours!" snarled Mr. Blank. "I couldn't feel where the bed was unless I happened to touch the footboard. I thought I could walk clear over to the bureau. I tell you it's a confounded crank you have on this subject. Some day you'll precipitate a serious accident."

"If any one precipitates, it'll be you, I should think," retorted Mrs. Blank icily. And the furniture remained where it was.

It was the next evening that Master Blank undertook to carry a pile of schoolbooks from the dining room to the sitting room. He had a bottle of ink in his hand, and he thought he knew exactly where the center table was. In the course of his peregrinations in search of it, however, he came into violent collision with the glass door of the bookcase, which he broke. There were also inky traces discernible on the carpet when Mrs. Blank came in. This time there was some balm for her feelings. She could spank Master Blank and did it with the best will in the world.

Her own downfall was not long in coming, however, although for a few days only minor inconveniences were met with, such as the abrasion of ankles against chair rockers and slight bruises received by means of sudden contact with unforeseen obstacles. Last evening Mrs. Blank undertook to transfer the cage of her pet parrot from the window where it spends the day to the snug corner where it passes the night. She did not trouble to light the gas, and by some unaccountable mental lapse she had forgotten the precise point at which a tabouret, on which stood a jardiniere, was stationed. She charged into the tabouret with considerable force, was overbalanced by the weight of the cage in her arms and took a header with a resounding crash. The parrot shrieked, and, unable to distinguish friend from foe, inflicted a severe bite on her mistress' finger. Mr. Blank came in hurriedly, picked up his wife and assisted in making an inventory of sundry contusions. Then they lifted the parrot cage, badly bent, and the jardiniere with a piece chipped out of it and the tabouret somewhat scratched, and then Mr. Blank observed quietly:

"I have just one thing to ask you, Mrs. Blank. Was I right?"

"No, you were not!" retorted Mrs. Blank savagely. "Serious accident? What's serious about this, I should like to know? For goodness' sake, Henry, don't stand there trying to look like a martyr! If you must have the furniture moved back, I'll move it!" And she did.—Philadelphia Record.

Preoccupation.

"Why do you speak so slightingly of that eminent scientist?"

"I didn't mean to speak slightingly of him," answered the young man with the striped shirt front, "but it does seem peculiar to me that a man who knows just when the next comet will arrive and just how far it is to the moon should be so utterly ignorant when it comes to a question of when it's time for dinner or what train to take to get to the nearest town."—Boston Traveler.

THE STIRRUP CUP.

My short and happy day is done;
The long and lonely night comes on,
And at my door the pale horse stands
To carry me to unknown lands.

His whinny shrill, his pawing hoof,
Sound dreadful as a gathering storm,
And I must leave this sheltering roof
And joys of life so soft and warm.

Tender and warm the joys of life;
Good friends, the faithful and the true;
My rosy children and my wife,
So sweet to kiss, so fair to view.

So sweet to kiss, so fair to view;
The night comes on, the lights burn blue,
And at my door the pale horse stands
To bear me forth to unknown lands.

A NOVEL HOTEL BILL.

The Man to Whom It Was Presented Could Not Understand It.

"Talking about bookkeeping, there used to be a man in Yankton whose system of bookkeeping accounts was wonderfully efficient. He kept a hotel, and he could neither read nor write. He did not know how to spell his own name, but he did a thriving business and collected every dollar of his accounts. Once, years ago, when I first came to this country, I went to his hotel and stopped there two weeks," writes Milt Brinben.

"When I left, he presented me with a statement of what I owed him, and it was a curiosity. He had copied it from his ledger. At the top of the sheet there was a rude picture of a soldier on the march and after it three straight marks. Then there was a scene showing a man at table eating. Then appeared a bed with a man in it. In the amount column there was a picture of a doll and after it the two letters "RS." After the picture of a man eating there were forty-two marks; after the view of the man in the bed, fourteen marks. I looked at the account, then at the proprietor, and told him it would take me a week to answer that conundrum.

"I was completely stumped, and when that hotel man deciphered the amount for me it was this: The picture of the soldier walking meant march, and the three marks supplied the date, March 3, when I began boarding. The man at the table with forty-two marks after it indicated that I had eaten forty-two meals. The man in bed with fourteen marks showed that I had slept in the house fourteen nights. The doll with the 'RS' after it meant 'dollars,' and in the figure columns appeared the figures 14, which was the amount I owed him. And it was a true bill."—Yankton Press.

A Persian Barber.

A Persian barber works in a style very different from that in vogue in this country. A typical shop is a square room, with one side open to the street. In the center is a tiny bed of flowers sunk in the floor, from the middle of which rises an octagonal stone column about three feet high.

The capital of the column forms a receptacle for the water in which the barber dips his hand as he shaves his customer's scalp. In Persia they do not lather. The shop is very clean. In two recesses stand four vases filled with flowers and the implements of the barber's art—scissors, razors, lancets, hand mirrors, large pinchers to extract teeth, branding irons to cauterize the arteries in amputating limbs, strong combs, but not a hairbrush, for that implement is never used by Persians.

From the barber's girdle hang a round copper water bottle, his strop, and a pouch to hold his instruments. In his bosom is a small mirror, the presentation of which to his customers is a sign that the job is finished and that the barber waits for his pay. The barber shaves the heads of his customers, dyes their beards, pulls their teeth, blisters and bleeds them when ailing, sets their broken bones and shampoos their bodies.—Exchange.

Strange Lapse of Memory.

Cases of forgetfulness on matters of interest are on record. While Dr. Priestley was preparing his work entitled "Harmony of the Gospels" he had taken great pains to inform himself on a subject which had been under discussion relative to the Jewish Passover. He wrote out the result of his researches and laid the paper away. His attention and time being taken with something else, some little time elapsed before the subject occurred to his mind again. Then the same time and pains were given to the subject that had been given to it before, and the results were again put on paper and laid aside. So completely had he forgotten that he had copied the same paragraphs and reflections before that it was only when he had found the papers on which he had transcribed them that it was recalled to his recollection. This same author had frequently read his own published writings and did not recognize them.

WATCH DOGS

EVER ON THE ALERT—ALIVE TO EVERY FORM OF OPPRESSION—KEPT ON EDGE—BURDENED BEYOND ENDURANCE—NERVES GIVE OUT.

The machinery of a mill that grinds day and night has to shut down now and then for repairs. It is the same way with your nerves. Overwork, close application, our ways of living bring about nerve waste that sets up symptoms of various kinds. It may be failing strength, weakness, languor, headache, sleeplessness, etc. Whatever it is Nerve Force is lacking and the means of restoring rests with Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. A great many people vouch for this. Among them is Mrs. F. Morrison, of No. 342 E. Baldeagle St., Lock Haven, Pa., who says:

"For a long time I have been very much run down. I did not seem to have any strength to do anything. I could not sleep at night and suffered so much from headaches, my appetite was gone and I felt miserable. I got some of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and never before had anything do me so much good. I rested well—got stronger—felt well and gained in flesh and weight. I cannot speak too highly of them, they are all they are recommended to be."

By calling at Krumrine's drug store information can be obtained regarding this great success of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and how they were first introduced by proof of their merit.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

Church Sidewalk Nuisances.

A girl voices her sentiments as follows, and we are sure some other girls can vouch for its correctness:

"If there is anything that will make one feel like you have got into a lot of unweaned calves it is when one comes out of church Sunday night and finds a lot o idiots lined upon the sidewalk. They crowd along the sidewalk and compel women and children to elbow their way through. I'd like to see the girls arm themselves with hat pins about two feet long and give every fellow who stands in her way a good poke."

—When suffering from racking cough, take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. The soreness will be relieved and a warm, grateful feeling and healing of the parts affected will be experienced. All druggists.

Nothing Goes But Baggage.

After January 1st the railroad will not accept as baggage anything but luggage containing personal effects which accompany the owner. The express companies have been making a kick over the indiscriminate checking of articles as baggage which under no stretch of the imagination could be considered as such.

Barnum's Monkeys

"All well—all happy—lots of fun". That is the regular report from the monkey cage of Barnum's Circus ever since the keepers began dosing the monkeys with Scott's Emulsion. Consumption was carrying off two thirds of them every year and the circus had to buy new ones.

One day a keeper accidentally broke a bottle of Scott's Emulsion near the monkey cage and the monkeys eagerly lapped it up from the floor. This suggested the idea that it might do them good. Since then the monkeys have received regular doses and the keepers report very few deaths from consumption. Of course it's cheaper to buy Scott's Emulsion than new monkeys—and that suits the circus men.

Consumption in monkeys and in man is the same disease. If you have it or are threatened with it can you take the hint?

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle.

McCalmont & Co., whether their lime business is absorbed by the trust or not, will continue their implement and seed business and hope by moving up town to get into closer touch with the trade.

MR. CORAY ACCEPTS.

Why He Will Run as a Democratic Candidate for Treasurer.

HONORED BEING WITH YERKES

Says the People Have Witnessed a Most Ingeniously Devised Scheme of Public Plunder by the Acts of the Recent Legislature.

SPEAKS OF ELECTION NEXT YEAR

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—The committee appointed by the democratic state convention to notify E. A. Coray, Jr., of his nomination by that party for the office of state treasurer, having performed that duty, to-day received a letter from Mr. Coray accepting the nomination. Mr. Coray in his letter says he esteems it an honor to be associated on the ticket with so pure and able a jurist as Judge Yerkes.

In alluding to the issues of the campaign, he says in the early part of the present year the "people of Pennsylvania were permitted to witness the unfolding of the most ingeniously devised and gigantic schemes of public plunder ever attempted in any single session of the state legislature."

This scheme, he says, involved among other things the purchase of the organization of that body and the purchase of a seat in the United States senate. After detailing certain measures promoted by, what he terms the leaders of the "machine," Mr. Coray says:

"It was in the spirit of resistance to this conspiracy that fusion had its birth. The decent democrats and the decent republicans in the legislature laying aside all questions of party policy upon which honest men may honestly differ, fought shoulder to shoulder for the honor of the commonwealth and the protection of its taxpayers. In that battle your chairman, Mr. Creasy, and Representative Palm were among the foremost champions of the rights of the people.

"The results of the struggle there waged are now matters of history. The public press is still free to expose the schemes of the corruptionists, and is improving the opportunity. The streams and subluvial deposits of coal have not changed ownership. The supreme court has removed the tax-ripping club, the machine held over the city of Philadelphia.

Popular government, however, is suspended in our cities of the second class. Trolley franchises worth millions of dollars, recently owned by the state, now repose in the pockets of the machine leaders—sufficient in value to pay all the expenses of all the larceny committed, and together with the many smaller grabs variously disguised, leave a handsome margin of profit to the machine for its session's work.

"The harmonious action of the union and democratic parties concentrates the heretofore divided opposition which has hindered effective protest being made against the machine at the polls. The spirit and purposes expressed in the platforms of the democratic and union parties are identical. They speak for honest government. The machine platform endorses all the plundering acts committed by the legislature. The issue is thus squarely drawn. The struggle is transferred from the halls of the legislature to the people. This is the court of last resort. Victory for the machine would inevitably be construed as an endorsement of all the iniquities of which it has been guilty.

"The election will have an important bearing upon the contest for governor and the legislature next year. If the machine is entrenched when the legislature of 1903 convenes, the largest army of spoilsmen that ever assembled at Hirrisburg will be on hand clamoring for the flesh pots. Another United States senator is to be elected at that time, and the machine has no other assets with which to pay for services rendered its candidates, than those they get out of the commonwealth.

"Recognizing that the democratic party of Pennsylvania by their platform adopted August 15, 1901, have made these questions the issue of the present campaign for the purpose of overthrowing the corrupt ring which now manages public affairs, I have no hesitancy in accepting the nomination of your party upon that platform."

Tot Causes Night Alarm.

"One night my brother's baby was taken with Croup," writes Mrs. J. C Snider, of Crittenden, Ky., "it seemed it would strangle before we could get a doctor; so we gave it Dr. King's New Discovery, which gave quick relief and permanently cured it. We always keep it in the house to protect our children from Croup and Whooping Cough. It cured me of a chronic bronchial trouble that no other remedy would relieve." GIRL WOMEN.

The general standard of measurement for womanhood is "grown-up-ness." When a girl is emancipated from school and arrives at the dignity of trailing skirts and elaborate hair dressing she is looked upon as a young woman. But nature knows nothing of such standards. When the womanly function is established womanhood is attained according to her standards, and there is need of womanly care and caution. It is girlish ignorance or neglect at this critical time which often results in long years of after misery.

Mothers who perceive the evidences of functional derangement in young girls should promptly have them begin the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, tranquilizes the nerves and tones up the whole system.

"My troubles started during my girlhood," writes Miss Flora I. Greer, of 107 Howe Street, Akron, O., "but did not prove serious until 1895. From that time I did not see a well day. I suffered at every monthly period with terrible headache, irritation of the spine and pains in my heels. I had soreness through my hips and ovaries all the time and constant backache. One doctor would tell me one thing ailed me, another would say something altogether different, but they only relieved me. I then wrote you and followed your advice. I took five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and five vials of 'Pellets.' Have not had a single symptom of my old trouble so far. Can sleep good, work hard, and eat solid and substantial food without distress."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.

McCrady—Baldrige.

From the Pittsburg "Press" of October 20 we glean the following account of the wedding of Miss Margaret Jane Baldrige, a niece of Mrs Jennie Mitchell, of this place. The bride is known to some of our people, having visited here in the past:

A very pretty wedding which took place in Braddock on Wednesday night was that of Miss Margaret Jane Baldrige and Mr Edward McCrady, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, in "Twin Maples," Braddock.

The ceremony was performed in the north parlor by the Rev. William G. Reagle, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Braddock. The bride was given away by her father and was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Baldrige, as the maid of honor, and Miss Anna Baldrige as the bridesmaid. The attendant of the groom was Mr. Carl Jack. The flower girls were Miss Millicent McCrady and Ruth Clifford. The ribbon bearers were Master Roland McCrady and Master John Clifford. The Episcopal ring service was used.

The bride's gown was of white duchess satin, with lace trimmings, and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore pink mousseline over pink silk and the bridesmaid wore blue mousseline over blue silk. Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" was played by Mrs. C. M. Warren, of the East End, who is a sister of the bride. After the wedding supper the young couple left for a trip to Washington, Old Point Comfort and points in North Carolina.

An Autumn Wedding at Beech Creek.

Miss Lillian Merry, daughter of Hon. J. W. Merrey, of Beech Creek, and Mr. Truman James Purdy, of Sunbury, Pa., were married Tuesday evening at the home of the bride at Beech Creek, by Rev. Nichols of Lock Haven.

Miss Mary Quigley, of Blanchard, was maid of honor and Mr. G. E. Rohrbach, of Sunbury, officiated as best man. The bridesmaids were Misses Helen and Lillian Quigley, of Lock Haven, nieces of the bride.

The bride wore a costume of cream peau de levante and real lace and carried bride's roses. The maid of honor wore Nile green silk and carried pink chrysanthemums. The little bridesmaids wore white Paris muslin and carried pink chrysanthemums. The bride was given away by her father. Miss Jessie Deise played Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The wedding was a private one, invitations being confined to members of the respective families and immediate friends. They left on the midnight train for an eastern trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Purdy, immediately upon their return, will reside at Sunbury, Pa.—L. H. Express.

AMID ENTHUSIASM

Yale Confers the Degree of LL. D. Upon President Roosevelt.

BI-CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OVER

It Was a Most Remarkable Scene Which was Witnessed in the Hyperion Theatre, New Haven, Wednesday Morning.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Oct. 24.—Representatives of many people and creeds, of the learned professions and of the industries and literature were honored by Yale university yesterday and in turn paid homage to the great institution of learning, which is celebrating the completion of the second century of its existence, as they marched behind Yale's colors, delegates to the great festival, and participated in the closing functions of the celebration.

The closing exercises of the bi-centennial were officially commemorative. They were held in the Hyperion theatre. Classical music, a commemorative poem and a Greek festival hymn, both composed for the occasion; a commemorative address by David J. Brewer, associate justice of the United States supreme court, and finally the clothing with the hoods of the honorary degrees of great men, a list of whom affords a roster of monumental fame, these constituted the day's exercises.

President Roosevelt and party arrived on time at 9:30, after an hour's run from Farmington, where a considerable company of people had gathered to bid him good bye.

President Roosevelt and President Hadley entered the theatre at 10:30. The president of the United States was led by the university's president to the seat of honor directly behind the orator's desk. President Hadley took his seat beside him. On this platform where Joseph H. Choate, John Hay, Richard Olney, Chief Justice Melville W. Fuller, and Justice Brewer, of the United States supreme court, President Elliott, of Harvard; Patton, of Princton; Faunce, of Brown; Harper, of Chicago; Provost Harrison, of Pennsylvania, and other college presidents, besides literary men and churchmen of distinction. Admiral Sampson, apparently in ill-health, did not enter with the procession. He made his way to his place through a side door and, leaning on the arm of Professor W. W. Farnum, was shown to his seat.

The set programme was carried out with precision.

When the long list of degrees had been finished President Hadley advanced a step or two and with great impressiveness, said:

"There yet remains one name." In an instant the great audience was standing. The President of the United States also arose and the theatre rang with cheers. The air was filled with waving 'kerchiefs and programmes.

Remarking that Yale had chosen for the degree this candidate before he became president, President Hadley announced that all Yale men were now doubly honored by greeting the man and the president as a son of Yale.

Specially addressing President Roosevelt, President Hadley spoke as follows:

"Theodore Roosevelt, while you were yet a private citizen we offered you most worthily the degree of LL. D. Since in his providence, it has pleased God to cover Theodore Roosevelt with another title, we give on that account a double portion of welcome.

"He is a Harvard man by nature, but, we are proud to think that in his democratic spirit, his broad national sympathy and above all his cleanness and purity and truth, he will be glad to be an adopted son of Yale."

President Roosevelt advanced, bowed profoundly and tried to speak. Again the audience cheered, and it was fully a minute before he was allowed to proceed. He said:

"President Hadley: I have never yet worked at a task worth doing that I did not find myself working shoulder to shoulder with some son of Yale. I have never yet been in a struggle for righteousness and decency that there was not men of Yale to aid me and give me strength and courage.

"As we walked hither this morning we passed by a gateway which was raised to the memory of a young Yale lad who was hurt to death beside me as he and a great many others like us marched against the gun fire from the heights and with those memories quick in our minds, I thank you doubly for you planned to do me the honor while I was yet a private citizen."

The hymn "America" was then sung and the audience dispersed.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. Frank P. Blair, of Bellefonte.

Longest Stone Arch Bridge.

The work upon the great stone arch bridge which is being erected by the Pennsylvania railroad across the Susquehanna river at Rockville, about five miles above Harrisburg, is rapidly nearing completion and is expected to be ready for travel before the beginning of the new year. The masonry work of the bridge, consisting of 48 70-foot spans, has been completed, and the contractors are now engaged in putting the asphalt covering over the arches. When this is completed the work of filling in, grading and ballasting will be begun and the four tracks put down.

Work upon this, the longest stone arch railroad bridge in the world, was begun less than two years ago by the Drake & Stratton company, which had the east end of the bridge, and H. S. Kirbaugh, who had the western end. The unusually mild weather of last winter enabled the contractors to hurry their work, and the bridge will be finished within the limit of two years set by the company.

The Bird Season.

Gunners report that quail are fairly plentiful, but hard to get yet, on account of the foliage. Of the birds bagged very many are really too small for the pan, and it is evident that they were hatched very late in the season, belonging doubtless to a second brood, as the hen quail will hatch a second time if her first brood is destroyed from any cause when quite young. By the time the foliage all disappears these little birds will be large enough for the gunners, and better sport will be afforded the hunter then than can be had now.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

To Open the Work in Bellefonte—Its Objects and Aims.

Staff Captain Barker, general secretary of the Salvation Army, has completed arrangements for the opening of the work of the organization in Bellefonte.

There was a time when the Salvation Army was little understood. Its methods were ridiculed and laughed at, but it is now recognized as one of the great religious forces at work in the land.

From a handful of workers twenty years ago, it is now operating in over seven hundred cities and towns in the United States, and three thousand officers are devoting their entire time to the work. Besides its purely religious aspect, this organization has done much to relieve suffering and distress among the poor of our large cities.

One hundred and fifty shelters for poor men are in operation, where seven thousand nightly find relief from the cold. Twenty Rescue Houses for fallen women are maintained and over one thousand of these unfortunates are restored to lives of virtue each year.

In addition to this three farm colonies are established in various sections of the country to aid in the restoration of destitute families to positions of independence.

That they have been able to do so much is all the more astonishing when it is remembered through what opposition they have passed.

Their coming to Bellefonte is not as a church, but as a mission, and it is to be hoped that a repetition of the good accomplished in other places may follow their labors here.

The hall on the second floor of the Centre County Bank building has been engaged and meetings will be held every night at 8 o'clock.

Academy 6—State College Reserves 5

The State Reserves which is supposed to be nearly as strong as the Varsity team was gloriously defeated by the Bellefonte Academy by the score of 6 to 5 on the Beaver Field at State College on Saturday afternoon.

The features of the game were Hoys 90 yd run, and the excellent playing of the Taylor boys, Eddie Keichline and Don Mahaffey. On States team Heck, Elder and Thompson all played a star game. It was one of the cleanest games of football played this fall. Fully five hundred people were in attendance, and the music for the occasion was furnished by the Cadet Band. The line up.—

Quite a Flag Fight.

After the game on Saturday at State College the Academy boys felt so jubilant over their victory that a spirit of recklessness took possessions of them and when the cadet band was leaving the football field, they threw their colors the "yellow and white" to the breeze and had the nerve to march in front of the musicians. In a very short time the blood of the College boys was boiling, and when they thought things had gone far enough, they made a grand rush for the colors, tore them from the staff and lowered them to the ground and had it not been for Captain Taylor who knows how to handle a crowd of College boys, as he did'nt go to the "Farm School" four years for nothing, they would have torn their beautiful silk flag into shreads, but he rushed in and tossed them right and left, and with the assistance of Sam Russel and Ralph Cummings of State College the Yellow and White was saved.

FIERCE FOREST FIRES.

They Are Doing Great Damage Over the County.

For over a week past, mountains in the vicinity of Bellefonte and in other parts of Centre county have been on fire and thousands of dollars worth of damage has already been done. The mountains encircling our little town have been all a blaze and the sight at night is indeed a brilliant one.

The carelessness of hunters have caused a dozen mountain fires and the long dry spell with the high wind which prevailed for a few days has caused the flames to spread rapidly. The people in the mountain districts are praying for rain as that alone can stop the fire fiend's progress.

On Sunday Constable Butler of Marion township ordered out all the able bodied men and set them to fighting fire. Other constables are doing the same thing.

The United Telephone & Telegraph Company, of this place, lost some valuable telephone poles which were cut down and ready for use, in Marion township. There was also a large quantity of match wood, cut and ready for shipment to the Pennsylvania Match Company at this place destroyed by the flames in that same section of county. Thousand of dollars worth of young timber belonging to P. B. Crider & Son, of Bellefonte, and other lumbermen has been destroyed.

Mr. Brungart was at work as usual during the day, although his health has been impaired, yet nothing serious was thought of. In the evening when he returned he was taken ill and in a few minutes he expired. Deceased was the sixth son of Jacob and Sallie Brungart, and was born at Wolf's Store. When twenty-one years old he married Maggie Leitzell, and to this union three children were born, two having preceded him to the grave. Shortly after marriage he embarked in the tanning business at Rebersburg with A. B. Erhard and was quite successful until they sold out, and then went to carpentering; later he became foreman for a large Pittsburg building firm and continued in that position until about fifteen years ago, when he returned to Rebersburg. He was an industrious christian man, a prominent citizen, and was engaged in the furniture and undertaking business.

Sunday evening they held their meeting in the Court House which was crowded to the doors. One of the features of the evening was the singing of Captain Agnes MacKenzie, who has a very sweet soprano voice and who favored the audience with several pretty solos.
